
Image1

Why is it, that I had met you of all days, right here, right now, on this winter day If I close my eyes, spring is far away, and it's only full of cold breaths here, and yet in a harsh winter, from the blood you spilled, I was born, red Chinese plum, camellia, daffodil Yeah. I'm fine with whatever you call me